Quote from pastor and author, Larry Krieder:

“Somehow, many of us have been duped into thinking that spiritual maturity can be attained only by super saints who pray five hours a day, attend church four times a week and follow a vigorous Bible reading program. And we despair when we don’t measure up. While it is true that as we mature spiritually, we will find ourselves wanting to read the Bible more often and pray more frequently; but growing to maturity happens in much more practical and gradual ways. I believe growth happens especially as we reach out to the less spiritually mature, rather than constantly needing to be fed ourselves. Maturity requires that we become more responsible for others.”
